

Zealand Alpine scenery, and Miss Pawsey showed some nice little pencil sketches.

The drawings by Mr. I. Finnemore were very well executed, but the attitudes of the party cutting steps, and the angles of the slopes down which the party glissaded, did not suggest the precautions which experience was supposed to have suggested.

We were very glad to renew our acquaintance with Mr. H. G. Willink's inimitable drawings of the incidents of a climber's day. How could those who have experienced the miserable joys of 'The Doubtful Day' fail to take a delight in Mr. Willink's sketch.

The humorous side of Alpine life was well in evidence at the exhibition.

We had several original Punch drawings, of which perhaps the most successful was 'Toil and Pleasure,' by Mr. G. L. Stampa.

'A Lecture at the Alpine Club,' by Mr. George Morrow, was extremely comical, and should really find a permanent home in the Club rooms. Another delightfully humorous sketch was 'A Very Comfortable Place,' by Mr. Lewis Baumer, who also sent two others equally well drawn, but not quite so telling in humour.

Mr. Arthur Rackham's originality was well displayed in the delightful 'Alpine Notes,' which was worth careful study, as were also the two other Punch drawings by Mr. Townshend and Mr. Rowntree, both of which added decidedly to the gaiety of the exhibition, which would certainly not have been complete without something from the facile pencil of the popular Sir F. Carruthers Gould, who always manages to strike the right note. The drawing of the chamois with Mr. Bryce's head was one of the best things shown. There were two very nice original drawings for book plates by Mr. L. L. Brooke and Mr. Harold Nelson.

The arrangement and hanging of the exhibits was kindly supervised by Mr. Sydney Spencer, whose great experience was an invaluable aid in this important detail.

8vo, pp. 249-253; ill. December, 1909
- Calendar, The Tyrolean. Belfast, McCaw Stevenson & Orr, 1910
This is a day by day calendar pasted (unfortunately) on to a very excellent reproduction in colour of Mr MacWhirter's picture 'June in the Austrian Tyrol.' The size of the print is 7" x 11". It is a pity that the effect of the picture is entirely spoilt by pasting the calendar over a portion of it, as it is a fine reproduction of the beautiful original. However, unmounted copies of the print may be obtained at 6<sup>d</sup> each.
- Casella, Georges. La Meije. In L'Illustration, Paris, No. 3473.
Folio, pp. 198-207; plates. 18 Septembre, 1909. 75 c.

- Correvon, Henry et Philippe Robert. La Flore Alpine.
8vo, pp. 40; col. plates. Genève, Edition Atar [1909]. Fr. 20
The plates are very interesting, for while the flower illustrations are treated with scientific accuracy, they are rendered in the manner of decorative art. The book is excellently got up.
- Crammer, Prof. Hans. Struktur und Bewegung der Gletschereises. Vortrag, gehalten am 5. November 1908. Erlangen, Junge, 1909
8vo, pp. 97-126, plates; reprinted from Mitt. d. Geogr. Ges. in München, iv. Bd., 1. Hft.

8vo, pp. viii, 254; plates.
A mass of information on most Swiss subjects, put together in no regular order, but readable and interesting; and of some use if strict accuracy is not required. To the average reader the irregular style and frequent errors will not do much harm. The 'alpinist' will be amused by the description of himself (he is mixed up with railways, banking, chauvinism, botany and alpinism):—'His dream is the scaling of impossible peaks; his passion is speleology, the exploration of crevices, couloirs, or to be crawling up the vertical sides of a precipice.'

- Woelflin, E. Une ancienne mesure de la hauteur du Mont-Blanc. Malzéville-Nancy, Thomas, 1909
8vo, pp. 9.
Twenty copies of this have been printed, of which this is no. 6. This quotes from 'Traité de la comète . . . par J. P. Loys de Cheseaux, Lausanne, 1744,' as follows:—'Cette méthode que j'ai éprouvée en particulier à l'égard du Mont-Maudit en Savoye, une des plus hautes de notre monde, puisqu'il a près de 2246 toises de hauteur perpendiculaire sur le niveau du lac de Genève.'
This makes the calculated height of Mont Blanc to be 4750 metres, which is much nearer the truth than the previous calculation of 2426 toises above the Lake of Geneva given by Fatio in the 1730 edition of Spon's 'Histoire de Genève.'
